Our story

It started with woman's search for gnomes

I've always loved gnomes, but there aren't many shops selling these cheery, traditional garden ornaments on the high street now. So I decided, after decades of working in retail, that it was time to open my own shop dedicated to meeting the needs of gnome enthusiasts.

I've travelled far and wide to gather a selection of the best gnomes in a wide range of different styles, and I've even added a few of my own innovations, like specialised gnome cleaning kits.

We're spreading the joy of gnome collecting to customers all across the UK and ensuring that younger people (like my four grandchildren) grow up in a world where the humble garden gnome isn't an endangered species.
